Washington, D. C.—On July 1, 1935, according to official census figures just released, the population of the country was 127,521,000, a gain of 3.9% over the census of Lakehurst, N. J.—With 50 passengers and two tons of freight the German dirigible Hindenburg made Monday night on the record of her maiden voyage to the United States. Her westward trip from Friedrichshafen was made in 31 hours 35 minutes, a new record. Dr. Hugo Eckener, her commander, seeks a 45-hour Eastern Old Forge, N. Y.—Charles Jeanette was 99 years old last week and pondered his contemplated marriage to an Albany widow.

"However," he said, "marriage is a look things over some before doing."

Business Continues Gains
New York City—Of 73 corporations reporting their first quarter's business during the week, 55 showed increases, 23 declines. Of the latter, 6 were utilities, the reminder scattered among tobacco, oil, candy, iron and steel and other less active industries.

Government Launches Last
New York City—When the Se-

J. Edgar Jones from selling his "oil royalties," he carried battle to the Supreme Court and in April won a temporary victory which SEC was warned not to tangle with business. But Washington authorities have played their ump card. Mr. Jones was indicted by a Federal Grand Jury on charges of fraud which, if he is found guilty, will render him liable to 75 years in prison. Pleading not guilty he faced the action "under persecution and to the most pitiable of New Dealism."

A TRIBUTE

On Thursday, May the seventh, in the early hours of dawn, Mrs. Harriet L., widow of the late Dr. John A. Twaddle and life long resident of Bethel, passed on to the higher life.

She was born in this town eighty years ago and came of sturdy New England stock. Fifty-eight years ago this month she became the bride of Dr. Twaddle and since that time has lived in the village, fifty-five years having been spent in her late home on Church Street. To them were born three children, Eva, wife of Dr. O. H. Brann of Augusta, Wald, a practicing physician in town, who has given her his loyal devotion during her widowhood; and Gard, a prominent physician and surgeon, residing in Auburn.

She was a Christian woman of simple tastes, democratic, and one of the old school. Her life was ruled by devotion to her family.
The sudden death of her husband, eighteen years ago, brought to her a tragedy from which she never wholly recovered. There was a companionship the gods must have envied and the thought of the resumption of it must have made death the sweetest of reunions.

Her friendly interest in others and her back home hospitality won for her innumerable friends. She was loved for her neighborliness and her home life was one of true devotion and loyalty. She was surrounded by loving neighbors whose devotion to her in her declining years has been a source of great happiness to her and to her children. The closing years of her life were clouded with great physical suffering which she bore with spartan courage, but in spite of constant discomfort she would greet all with a smile of good cheer. She was a great reader and took a keen interest in current affairs of state and nation. She was a member of the Congregational Church and took an active part in its affairs in her younger years, and was always a regular attendant until failing health overtook her.

She was a great lover of flowers and her many kindly neighbors and friends were so generous with their offerings that there was scarcely a day in the year that she did not have blooms in her home. Her memory will not soon depart from those who loved her.

In many a home in this community there is felt today a poignant sorrow because the gallant spirit of this woman has been stilled, and her children will treasure the blessed legacy of memory of happy years.

She was laid to rest beside her late husband in Riverside Cemtery following simple but impossible services at the home where many came to pay their last tribute to a neighbor and friend.
Beautiful flowers which she so loved were in profusion about the house and expressed the love of her friends. All who knew her will she will be missed and mourned by the family in their sorrow and many.

The beautiful things in this life are manifold 'tis true.
We count the stars by the thousands, the birds and the flowers, too.
The sunsets and the dawns, stars beautiful far and near.
But all the wide world over There's just one mother dear.

CLINIC POSTPONED

The pre-school clinic which was planned for May 20 at Bryant Pond to be sponsored by the Farm Bureau, has been postponed for the present. Due to the epidemic of measles, it seems advisable at this time not to have this clinic.
A notice of the change in date will be sent to this paper before the clinic is held.

Mrs. Percy Crane and daughter Janice motored with Dr. and Mrs.
Wallace to Machias this week to visit her mother in East Machias.

COMMENCEMENT RECEPTION TO BE HELD ON EVENING OF GOULD CENTENNIAL

The various committees of the Senior class, trustees and alumni of Gould Academy are working at top speed perfecting plans for the Centennial Reunion to be held on Commencement day, June 4. Latest plans call for the rescue of the annual Senior Reception from the oblivion to which it had been temporarily consigned, and in connection with it an illumination of the campus that will encourage returning alumni to stroll about the grounds meeting old friends.

As previously announced, the Centennial exercises will be held in a huge tent to be erected on the athletic field. Men of prominence in the state and nation, including among others Governor Brann and Commissioner of Education Bertram Packard, will speak after the Alumni banquet in the tent. The Rumford band will lead the march to the tent and will give a concert outside either during or after the exercises.

Plans are now being made on the basis of a minimum attendance of 400 at the banquet, though it is confidently expected that many more will be present. Preparing for this contingency, the alumni committee is making somewhat elastic arrangements which will be subject to change as reservations come in.

The Senior Reception, long an institution with Gould commemorations, will be continued as in the past, with some slight modifications to take care of the large group of alumni expected.

From the air the campus in front of the main building and the gymnasium will look as though it were a flattened Christmas tree, strung as it will be with 500 extra lights.
In the soft glow of these lamps, alumni and former students may be expected to meet in groups and renew old friendships as they talk over their days at Gould of 50 or 55 years ago.

Mrs. Maxine Lough, secretary of the Alumni association, has sent out a letter to all the former Gould students, outlining plans for the Reunion. As a guarantee will have to be made to the caterer for the banquet it is imperative that reservations be made in advance of the day, for otherwise there may not be sufficient accommodations for all. The charge of 125 to the bare cost of the banquet itself, expenses for illumination tent and so forth being taken care of in other ways.

Fred E. Hanson of Rumford, candidate for the Republican nomination for County Attorney. He is a graduate of Bates College and Peabody Law School; has taught at North Berwick High School and Hebron Academy. He passed the bar examinations last August. He is a member of the Chisholm Ski Club and Cosmos Club of Rumford and president of the newly organized Rumford Little Theatre.

SPRING BRINGS BULLETIN ON BETTER HOME GROUNDS

In response to hundreds of requests from home owners, both on farms and in Maine cities and villages, the Extension Service of the Maine College of Agriculture now offers a bulletin on Better Home Grounds. The illustrated, 40-page publication was prepared by Albert D. Nutting, forestry specialist in the Extension Service. Mr. Nutting is also in charge of the Extension better home grounds project in which several hundred Maine home owners are enrolled.

Beginning with a discussion of fundamentals of good design, the bulletin gives valuable information on building and maintaining lawns and on the control of pests in lawns. Trees, essential to every complete home, are carefully considered, with information as to the characteristics of varieties suited to Maine. A table on shrubs lists the common and trade names of useful shrubs, their season, color, height, distinctive features and adaptation to Maine.

Hedges, vines, flowers, rock gardens, and planting instructions are explained in the closing pages.
Copies of this bulletin on Better Home Grounds are available from the Extension Service, Orono, Maine. Ask for Bulletin No. 219, "Better Home Grounds."

MRS. NANCY OSGOOD

Mrs. Nancy Osgood, widow of H.
M. Osgood, died Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock at the home of Mrs.
Ada Valentine, Middle Intervale, where she had been for some time.
She was an invalid for a number of years.

Mrs. Osgood was born May 3, 1853 in Canterbury, N. H. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Na-die McGarrigle of Portland, and Libby of Portland.

Funeral services will be held at Greenleaf's funeral home at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

SOUTH PARIS FRIDAY BRIDGTON HERE SATURDAY

The South Paris team will clash with Gould at the Athletic Field here Friday afternoon at 1:30. This game was postponed Wednesday on account of showers. Quinby is scheduled for the building section.

Saturday afternoon at 2:30 the Gould team will play Bridgton here in a Western Maine encounter.
Neither team has a win in the league as yet and it will be a close thing. If both Bridgton and Gould have secured from their past the local boys are going to find the game tough. Both have plenty fast ball with a few in charge.
For Gould, Lefty Ruten may start as the hurler. He has been doing some great solid pitching and may get his opening on Saturday. This will be the opening home game of the season and should be a good one.

BRIGHT SPOT IN RECOVERY

One of the bright spots in the life of the town today is the new home of the town. The new home is a two-story building, built on a lot of about one acre, and is a very attractive building. It is a very bright spot in the town's recovery.

Three hundred billions of dollars of life insurance in force, twenty-three billions of dollars of assets of the companies, three billions in annual payments to beneficiaries and policyholders—these are figures that stagger the imagination of everyone but a statistician or a financier. But they assume particular significance in connection with Life Insurance Week, which is being observed throughout the United States this year, May 11-19.

Who owns this vast accumulation of assets? Average people for the most part—people of small or very modest means—sixty-three million of them in all. And back of every policy owned by this vast number of Americans is the whole fabric of American business, for the funds paid into the insurance companies are invested in Federal, state and municipal bonds, in highly selected industrial and railroad securities, in mortgages upon the nation's best real estate. The policyholders of the country are part owners of the country.

Each passing week brings a little more order out of the political chaos, as the two great parties find their loins, summon their cohorts and prepare for their quadrennial battle.

Practically all preliminary interest is naturally centered on the Republican convention to be held next month in Cleveland. The Democratic convention is also to be held next month, in Philadelphia, but it takes no one to guess what will happen there. The delegates will nominate Franklin D. Roosevelt for the presidency, and it is almost inevitable that more than one ballot will be required. Thereafter they will settle down to work on a platform, and once that is done, the party will be ready to face the voters.

out to "stop Landon." And Mr. Landon's refusal to allow his name to be put up in various state primaries has weakened his position. It is not at all impossible that Hoover, Borah and Knox will cement their forces. If necessary, to prevent Mr. Landon's nomination.

Indication of what is to come is found in the selection of the keynote and chairman of the coming Republican convention. Chairman will be old-guard Congressman Snell of New York, a representative of the most conservative wing of the party. Mr. Snell's congressional record shows that he has opposed practically every New Deal measure.

Reynolds will be Senator Stewart of Oregon, a middle of the road man, usually called a "mild progressive." Senator Stewart has been outspoken in criticism of many New Deal policies, but his Congressional record shows he voted for many of them, including the NRA and the AAA. He was a leader in the fight for payment of the bonus, in support of the veterans. It is believed that the Republican leaders selected him to show that the party is not so conservative, and welcomes moderate liberalism in legislation.

do their talking for them, much can happen between June and November.

A business commentator recently observed that the best thing that can be said about business today is that there is nothing to say. Answer to that riddle is that business is holding its own, is gradually improving, and that no signs of a let-down can be seen.

Business Week says that recently observed factors reinforce the belief that the second quarter business volume will be best since at least the middle of 1931, that manufacturing activity will be tops since 1929. Earnings, as well as volume and activity, are likewise showing highly encouraging upward trends.

The extremely conservative "Annalist" forecasts that business improvement will continue throughout the second quarter, and in this is seconded by other financial and industrial periodicals. The Annalist adds that "on the basis of economic factors alone the logical expectation would be two or three years of general active conditions. But the presence of artificial elements suggests the likelihood of intervening peaks and valleys, the timing of which cannot be readily forecast."

One of the artificial elements in the veterans' bonus, which is believed to have a strong influence in stimulating business, particularly in the time-payment plan, automobiles, kitchen appliances, real estate, etc. (throughout the country have widely advertised plans whereby veterans can buy now pay later when they get their bonus).

Introspective of that, have conducted no recent favorable to continued business betterment. Wholesale prices have been held to a stable level. There is a vast untapped market for all manner of goods and services. Heavy industry is receiving interest rates are very low and show no signs of rising. And the purchase of goods, whether a vacuum cleaner, a car or a home, can get what he wants on much better terms than ever before.

Back gardeners and all of them are home grounds (the shrub) at all and all gardeners in the nation both before and after building his own.

The Printing Press and Prosperity

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

Since its first beginnings the Printing Press has been recognized as a prosperity-builder, as well as a contributor to human happiness and understanding.

It has added our national well-being in many ways. By spreading knowledge of new ideas and new products, by telling the producer how his goods may be improved and the consumer where they may be obtained, it has brought about the wide interchange of ideas and products which is the basis of all progress and prosperity.

For the worker it has boosted the purchasing power of wages by lowering the cost of what he buys. For the seller it has increased profits, at reduced prices, by greatly expanding his market.

Those are the wealth-creating powers of the Printing Press—when it engages in its normal functions.

But there are theorists who advocate use of the Printing Press as a prosperity-builder in quite a different way.

They want to use it to create money, instead of wealth.

They seek to encourage the belief that if the presses at Washington simply print a lot more dollar bills without additional reserves to sustain their value, everybody can be rich. They ignore the teachings of experience—that reckless currency inflation boosts all prices, and then by lowering the purchasing value of every pay envelope.

The two uses should not be confused.

Behind the output of the press which prints our newspapers, books, our magazines and our advertisements is all the productive strength of the country. History has proved this.

Behind the output of the press which prints recklessly inflated currency is a misleading theory—which breeds bitter disappointment. History has proved that, too.

PLAN MADE MORE SIMPLE BY NEW RULING

K. Gardner, specialist in soil conservation, announced this week minor changes in the rulings which the conservation program will be administered. Pointing out that the changes in no way interfere with the major objectives of the program, Gardner said that as the program gets under way, some modifications must be made.

he said, "is a change to the program more easily accepted by farmers. Crops were formerly classified as soil building, conserving, or soil depleting. The new ruling abolishes the distinction 'soil building' crops, crops formerly in this group have been included with the soil conserving, making only two classifications—soil conserving and soil depleting.

crop land, formerly defined as tillable land from which at one crop other than wild hay has been removed since January 1, now includes land in orchards and vineyards which had not reached bearing age by January 1.

the change provides that farmers who fall short of the minimum acreage of soil conserving crops will be eligible for some payment. To qualify for the full building payment, a farmer must still have at least fifteen acres of soil conserving crops for every hundred acres in his soil depleting group. When first announced, the program would have made ineligible for payment any farmer who was not under the requirement. Under the new ruling, partial payment may be made to those who fall short of the required acreage. The 15% is now a requirement for payment; formerly it was a requirement for any payment. Deductions will be made for each acre of the 15% requirement.

A fourth modification of particular interest to vegetable growers allows them to qualify for bigger building payments. Land which has been in vegetable crops for three years or more, then has been planted to winter crops which are turned under between January 1, 1936 and October 1, 1936, may be counted in the conserving acreage of the farm. This allows larger soil building payments, for the maximum amount these payments is fixed by the acreage of soil conserving crops. A final change, necessary to protect against a few who might seek to evade the spirit of the program, gives the Secretary of Agriculture power to withhold payments from any farmer who has been in 1936 in a way to defeat the aims of the program. According to H. R. Tolley, acting administrator of the AAA, this will apply to very few farmers.

GOULD 5-NORWAY 6

Three errors and two hits in the third inning spelled defeat for Gould last Saturday when Norway again won a one run victory. Be- hind 6-0 in the sixth inning Gould staged a rally scoring one in the sixth, two in the 7th and two in the 8th. The tying and winning runs were on base when the final out was made in both the 8th and 9th innings. Parker Brown's single in the 7th scoring two runs was a nice job of pinch hitting.

Whitman started on the mound for Gould and might have lasted but for errors although he was hit quite solidly. Bob Browne robbed two Norway men of extra base hits by nice catches way on top of the bank in left center field.

Lefty Keniston relieved Whitman in the fifth and did a great job al- lowing only three hits in the four and two-thirds innings on the mound. Only three men faced him in each of the 6th, 7th, and 8th in- nings.

Browne hit a triple in the sixth and scored Gould's first run as Quimby was being thrown out at first. Eddy Robertson with two hits led the attack for the losers. Frost and Verenis got two hits each for Norway.

WILDLIFE CONSERVATION
MOVEMENT GROWING

Interest in the Maine Wildlife Federation is becoming widespread throughout the State, according to Senator Harold F. Schnurle temporary president of the organization which was formed at Orono recently.

"I am getting reports from practically every county that plans are being discussed for a unification of wildlife interests along the lines proposed at Orono," Senator Schnurle said.

"It is apparent that Maine people are becoming conscious of the need for conservation and restoration of wildlife. This is especially true among sportsmen who realize that the day may come when our game supply will be so depleted that hunting will be a matter of a few weeks' open season and greatly restricted bag limits," he added.

"The purpose of the Maine Wildlife Federation is to prevent this condition in Maine, if possible. Unwise legislation and the lack of a strong organization to represent the interests of sportsmen and other lovers of wildlife have been the underlying causes of most of our present difficulties," Schnurle pointed out.

"There has been no medium through which these thousands of people could consolidate their voices into a single roar that would get action when it was necessary to fight unwanted legislation or support that which was good."

"The Maine Wildlife Federation will supply that medium and give every sportsman and wildlife lover an opportunity to have a voice in the conservation and restoration of Maine wildlife."

"The proposed setup of the federation provides for the formation of county groups to include all existing clubs or associations, and individuals interested in any phase of wildlife conservation and restoration."

"These county groups would be further unified by combining into sectional units, the latter being combined into a state-wide organization as outlined at Orono."

"None of the smaller groups that affiliated with the county organizations would lose their identity, however," Mr. Schnurle said. They and State Federations through representation by members appointed or elected to the parent groups.

"It is my understanding," he continued, "that the Cumberland County Fish and Game Association is going to undertake the job of consolidating the interested groups in that section. Other sportsmen's organizations throughout the State will undoubtedly follow suit."

Services Sunday morning at 10:45. "Mortals and Immortals" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ on Sunday, May 17.

The Golden Text is: "What man knoweth the things of a man, save the spirit of man which is in him? even so the things of God knoweth no man, but the Spirit of God" (1 Cor. 2: 11).

Among the citations from the Bible is the following: "But now thus saith the Lord that created thee, O Jacob, Fear not: for I have redeemed thee, I have called thee by name; thou art mine. Every one that is called by my name: for I have created him for my glory, I have formed him; yea, I have made him" (Isaiah 43: 1, 7).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science Textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "In Science man is the offspring of Spirit. The beautiful, good, and pure constitute his ancestry. Spirit is his primitive and ultimate source of being; God is his Father, and Life is the law of his being. In Science, man's immortality depends upon that of God, good, and follows as a necessary consequence of the immortality of good" (Page 63: 5-6, 9-11, and Page 81: 28-30).
